NOTES:

Meet Birdie, a young and active girl who is still figuring out the world around her. She can feel a little conflicted when meeting new friends at first, so she'll do best with a patient family who can give her time, guidance, and positive training as she builds confidence. Birdie has lots of energy and potential, and she'll thrive with people who enjoy working with an eager, athletic pup. If you're ready to invest in a fun companion who's still learning the ropes, Birdie could be the perfect match.
