NOTES:

Meet Gumball, a spicy boy with plenty of opinions and a strong sense of personal space. He's looking for a cat-savvy family that can read his signals, respect his boundaries, and stay in tune with his needs. Gumball prefers to keep all four feet firmly on the ground and appreciates interactions that happen on his terms. We suspect Gumball may not have had the best start in life, and he's still learning that people can be trusted. With patience, consistency, and an understanding of feline body language, he has the potential to continue building confidence and thrive in a home environment. For the right adopter, Gumball offers the opportunity to form a meaningful bond with a cat who simply needs someone willing to meet him where he is.
