NOTES:

Meet Nala, an independent girl who knows what she likes and appreciates a human who can read the room. She enjoys attention and affection, but she communicates clearly when she's had enough, so she'll do best with an experienced cat owner who understands feline body language and knows when it's time to give her a break. Nala thrives with people who respect her signals and let her set the pace for interaction. For the right adopter who appreciates a cat with personality and boundaries, Nala will make a rewarding and engaging companion.
