NOTES:

Prairie is a young Cattle Dog mix with a gentle heart who is looking for a family to help him grow into the confident dog he's meant to be. As a puppy, he's still learning about the world and can be fearful of strangers and unfamiliar environments, so he'll do best with adopters who are willing to take things at his pace. With patience, structure, and positive reinforcement training, Prairie is already showing that he has the potential to blossom. Giving him time to decompress and celebrate the little victories along the way will help him build trust and confidence. If you're ready to guide a deserving puppy through life's adventures, Prairie is ready to start that journey with you.
